Invasion of Austria by Hungarian Irregulars Stire Balkan States—Italy Roused in Anticipation of Attack on Invaders by "Little Entente" With Austria

(By International News Service)

LONDON, Sept. 6.—Hungarian regulars have invaded Austria and occupied Kirschlag, following a battle with Austrian gendarmie in which many were killed and wounded on both sides, said a Central News dispatch from Vienna today.

The fighting lasted several hours. Allied troops were sent to the scene from Weinerneustadt to restore order. After the Hungarians crossed the frontier, the Austrian population fled. The Austrian troops were compelled to retire.

Fear New War

Threat of a new war hung over Central Europe today as a result of the invasion of Austria.

Delivery of a message of warning from the inter-allied council of ambassadors to Hungary has been held up at the request of Italy. The note is being strengthened and may be transformed into an actual ultimatum.

Italy fears the "Little Entente" will send troops to oust the Hungarian irregulars unless they can be induced to withdraw by peaceful measures. If the "Little Entente" moves to throw out the Hungarians from West Hungary, Italian statesmen fear war.

Enemies of Hungary

The "Little Entente" is composed of Czecho-Slovakia, Jugo-Slavia and Roumania. All these powers are at loggerheads with Hungary.

The Allies have been aroused to some anxiety by news of monarchist activities by the Hungarians at Steinamanger. Representations have been made to Switzerland regarding former Emperor Charles and the Swiss government replied that he is being carefully watched to prevent his departure to Hungary to attempt another restoration coup.

HALF MILLION ARE DYING AT SAMARA

LONDON, Sept. 6.—Half a million Russians are threatened with immediate death from starvation in the Samara district unless aid is rushed quickly, said an urgent "S. O. S." received here today from the American relief workers at Moscow.

The telegram was forwarded to Walter L. Brown, chief of the American relief administration in Europe, who is at present in Geneva.

LOCAL MILITIA MEN INSPECTED; SWORN INTO SERVICE

The headquarters company of the Third Battalion, 160th Infantry, California National Guard, which is a Glendale organization, was officially inspected and sworn into Federal service at the Glendale armory last night, by Major Robert C. Cotton, U. S. A. instructor of infantry of the California National Guard.

Col. Walter P. Story of the 160th Infantry, with his adjutant, Capt. Clarence O. Hively, were present at the inspection. It was his first official visit since he was nominated colonel of the regiment. He seemed very much pleased at what he saw and took occasion to compliment the companies on the condition of the armory.

As has already been announced, the fifth separate company has now been divided into two organizations, viz., headquarters company, under command of Lieut. N. R. Whytock, and company M (machine gun), under command of Capt. T. D. Watson.

More than 100 men have been enrolled in the two companies, which are practically at maximum strength. They will continue to drill on Thursday nights on the high school campus.

At the armory, the lockers, which were received from the government some time ago, are now being installed with a view to having everything in shape for the schedule of drills.

NEW APARTMENT HOUSE IN PROSPECT

Henry Michel of 807 North Central avenue, who has been one of the most active of the builders of Glendale, states that he will soon take out a permit to build an 8-family apartment house on the third lot west of Orange on Hawthorne street which will cost approximately $18,000.

To date this year Mr. Michel has constructed about 100 buildings in Glendale in which he has the greatest faith as a field for investment and beautiful residence city.

GLENDALE

By MISS EVA DANIELS

(To be sung at the big rally tonight under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce)

(Air of "Jada")

We're here tonight to have a jolly time;
If you do not have it it is no fault of mine.
This Chamber of Commerce meeting was gotten, up you know,
To benefit the people of this town.
If you want to dance, the piper you must pay,
So please put up your ducats—don't try to get away.
J. M. Rhoades is with us, and we want him here to stay,
In Glendale—City of Renown.

Chorus

In Glendale—Glendale—
The Chamber of Commerce, it is great
In Glendale—Glendale—
Don't criticize—get in—co-operate.
Our aim: a thousand members; come in on the ground floor;
And when we get that number we're going out for more,
For Glendale—Glendale—
Join before you leave the door.

Glendale—Glendale—
Where real estate is moving fine—
In Glendale—Glendale—
I buy your house today and you buy mine.
A man leaves in the morning; his wife she sells the home;
He returns in the evening to find he has to roam
In Glendale—Glendale—
No better place for home, sweet home.

Chorus

In Glendale—Glendale—
We have two dailies, which review,
In Glendale—Glendale—
The Evening Press and Evening News;
They record all that happens, hot off the bat;
If you read them every day you'll know just where you're at
In Glendale—Glendale—
Next to heaven, the best place on the map.

Chorus

FALL REGISTRATION AT SCHOOLS OPENS WITH A RUSH

Registration is on at Glendale Union High School today, and the corridors are full of waiting students and parents, and counters are crowded with boys and girls, giving names and addresses and indicating the subjects they wish to take up.

The registration will consume three days this week, and school will open next Monday, September 12.

The fact that students were waiting to register when the doors were opened at 8 a. m. is an indication of the ambition and eagerness to meet school obligations and the outlook for the coming year is bright, aside from the embarrassment of school congestion and the anxiety in regard to class accommodations for increased students and teachers.

Instructors last year numbered 45; this year they number 55, the list, as furnished by Arving H. Oliver, business manager, being as follows:

George U. Moyse, principal; Ethel Hume Flood Moyse, vice-principal; Aleck Leroy Ferguson, vice-principal; Mary Beth Abbott, Jeanette Abel, J. Rhea Baker, Gertrude Ballard, Frederick, F. Borncamp, Earl T. Brown, Howard L. Butterfield, Esther Crandall, Bessie L. Field, Jennie Young Freeman, Preston A. Fullen, Mona C. Gardner, Dora L. Gibson, Dorothy Gilson, Walter Gorman, Eleanor B. Green, Mary Hairgrove, Helen Jane Hairgrove, Natalie Beach Hall, Ellen J. Hanson, Ella A. Hardy, Normal C. Hayhurst, Wilhelmina Hobush, Iva F. Hunter, Florence Knight, Clara M. Lauderdale, Inez Ledyard, George O. Lockwood, Edla C. Magnuson, Z. Earl Meeker, Ross V. Miller, Helen S. Moir, Mabel Murphy, Fay N. McEndree, Jennie A. McGregor, William A. Nord, Arthur R. Oliver, Bert Rolfe, Dorothy B. Poppy, Ruth Schindel, Lillian Edna Shattuck, Ruth B. Shearin, Pansy Ennice Sheldon, Hilda Smith, Morgan N. Smith, E. Maude Soper, Charlotte Louise Spier, Isabel Stevens, Bessie J. Stone, Harriet Switzer, Paul E. Webb, Daisy Winfrey Wilson.

Teachers' Meetings

Teachers' meetings for instructors in the Glendale city schools will begin Saturday. At 9 a. m., teachers in the intermediate school will have a session and at 10 a. m., there will be a general meeting of all the teachers.

BABY CONTESTANTS WANTED IN FAIR

Dr. Caroline Payne Jackman is busy rounding up the babies which Glendale mothers are to take to the San Fernando Valley fair, for examination and with a prosspect of securing prizes in the Better Babies Contest to be held under the direction of the Mothers' Educational Center of Southern California of which Dr. Maude Wilde is president.

This contest is a popular yet scientific movement to insure better babies. Mere beauty will not count. Physical and mental development only will be considered. The entries include children from birth to six years of age.

Mothers who intend to send children should register with Dr. Jackman or with members of her committee—Mrs. Richard Brown, 416 North Kenwood, Mrs. E. B. Moore, 1259 South Maryland, or Mrs. E. V. Bacon, 1235 South San Fernando road.

BOY NUISANCES

Capt. D. Ripley Jackson, 188 South Brand, has complained to the police that every evening several small boys gather in front of his place and steal fruit from passing trucks. Mr. Jackson also alleges that the boys throw the fruit about the house and grounds of his home.

Big Top of Exposition Will Be Scene of Initial Entertainment in Drive to Bring Thousands of New Membres Into Work of Upbuilding Commercial Body

Seven thousand live wires are expected to crowd in the mammoth Merchants' Exposition tent on the high school campus, tonight, to hear the big Chamber of Commerce program. There may be more than that number present. Eight thousand and maybe 9,000 people will take up the seating and standing room, with the small boys strung along the guy ropes, but those in charge of the affair confidently believe there will be at least 7,000 people on hand to enjoy and participate in the wonderful program of vocal and instrumental numbers, speeches, etc., that has been prepared.

From 7:15 until 10:30, there will not be an idle minute.

Free to All

There will be no "strings" to this program and there will be no sideshows, peanuts, pink lemonade or tickets to buy, to take the spare change. The big idea is to give this affair to the people of Glendale. The various artists who are appearing on the program are donating their services and the Chamber of Commerce is simply passing on these good things to the Glendale residents and visitors.

Every number on the program will be worth the price of admission, which simply is to take the trouble to travel over to the big tent, while the rest of the selections will be thrown in for good measure.

Bebe Daniels Coming

Since the publication of the program in Saturday's Evening Press, another star feature has been added. Miss Bebe Daniels, one of the best known motion picture stars on the screen today, has promised to be on hand and to furnish a real treat for those who attend.

Ground Cleared

By 10 o'clock this morning, all of the booths that were used for the Merchants' Exposition had been cleared away. It was then up to the Chamber of Commerce to get busy with the installation of the seats.

The use of the lumber for the seats was donated by the Bentley-Schoeneman Lumber Co. There will be seats for at least 6,000 people. The long, elevated runway which was used during the exposition has been removed, but the stage has been retained. Another lower platform will be constructed in front of the big stage.

New Members

On the large stage the 125 new members who have been taken into the Chamber of Commerce in the past month, will be seated. On the lower platform the Elks-Legion band will be located. This band will consist of 25 pieces and will be led by Raymond D. Crawford.

A sufficient number of seats on the main floor will be reserved for the 400 or 500 old members of the chamber. These will be located directly in front, or next to, the bandstand. The work of these old members will be to give the "glad hand" to the 125 Glendale boosters who have lately been received into the chamber and to assure them that their assistance is required and appreciated.

Big Time Predicted

"We are going to have the biggest time in the history of Glendale," said Assistant Secretary E. F. Sanders today. "By the time 7:15 rolls around the stage will all be set and we will be 'rarin' to go.' While we have done some big things in the way of securing members for the Glendale Chamber of Commerce during the past month, the results will not compare with those obtained in this larger drive. We are starting on this larger effort with the realization that there are hundreds of residents here who know they should be members of our organization. In most instances, it is just a question of getting them together and signing them up. They are with us heart and soul. They see the wonderful work the Chamber of Commerce is doing for this city, and, not desiring to be classed as slackers, they want to come in.

"We Need Them"

"We want them to come in. We need them. With their help and assistance, we can do much more than we would otherwise be able to do. Wit a thousand or fifteen hundred members, the Chamber of Commerce would be of untold value to Glendale. The big ideas we have in mind for the good of Glendale could be carried out, the elaborate advancement plans and schemes could be promoted, and carried to a successful conclusion. Glendale, as a whole, would be the gainer. This city is growing by leaps and bounds, and considerable of this growth can be traced directly to the efforts of the Chamber of Commerce. What a wonderful amount of good the chamber could do for the city if it had twice or three times the number of members she has right now.

The Program Plan

"The program we intend to put on tonight will be the finest it is possible for us to produce. We have spared no time or effort in securing stars for this occasion. All the people of this valley have to do is to come and fill the seats, and we will do the rest. We expect between 7,000 and 8,000 people to gather in the big tent tonight."

At tonight's program the time between 7:15 and 8 o'clock will be taken up by the Elks-Legion band. Miss Marian Tracy Whiting will also render several solos.

At 8 o'clock, the ensemble march, "Stars and Stripes Forever," by Sousa, will be played by the band. This will be followed by community singing of "America," led by Mayor Spencer Robinson.

Attorney W. E. Evans, master of ceremonies, will then take the stand and the rollcall and presentation of new members will immediately follow. The new members will be presented by E. F. Sanders, assistant secretary, through whose efforts practically all of them were secured, and the response of welcome will be made by C.

GARDNER ELUDES HIS PURSUERS; TRAIL LOST IN SWAMP

TACOMA, Sept. 6.—No trace of Roy Gardner, who made a sensational escape from McNeil's Island federal prison late yesterday had been found up to 9 o'clock today.

Even if Gardner had a confederate waiting for him with a boat it is thought he would have been unable to escape to the mainland due to the extensive patrol system. It is considered more likely that the fugitive has been able to conceal himself in the brush or woods—or, perhaps, about some farm house, on the island.

The three miles of water between the island and the mainland is treacherous. Gardner, in the opinion of officials, wouldn't have attempted to swim away.

REGRETS ESCAPE

NAPA, Cal., Sept. 6.—"Oh, tell me he's not dead."

Thus pleaded Mrs. Dolly Gardner, wife of Roy Gardner, when she heard today for the first time of his thrilling break for liberty from McNeil's island.

"I'm so sorry—so terribly sorry," she almost sobbed as she learned the details of his break for liberty.

"Why, only last Wednesday I had a letter from him. It was so bright and cheerful. I just can't believe it. I'm disappointed beyond words."

Striking Dock Workers Seize Harbor Office and Begin Collecting Taxes, While Leaders Decide on Formation of Soviet—Defy Authorities to Pull Down Flag

TENSE SITUATION IN IRISH TRUCE

LONDON, Sept. 6.—Belief that Eamonn de Valera would welcome a time limit from the British government in which to accept the six chief points of the original English peace offer was expressed in a dispatch received by the Irish office today from Dublin Castle.

MINERS TELL STORY

MADISON, W. Va., Sept. 6.—"And what's it all about?"

This was the question asked by a correspondent of the International News Service of one of the grim, determined men, leading the miners' army, sitting by a camp fire not far from the front this morning.

"Why are you and your comrades going out on this march?"

The leader whose name, for obvious reasons cannot be given, hesitated, then answered:

"I reckon there are many different reasons. But I think I speak for most of the men when I say that we want to get to Mingo county by next Tuesday, and see that justice is done in the trials to begin then.

"That isn't all, however," the leader continued. "We want to put an end to the mine guard system and the Baldwin-Felts detectives in the coal mining regions. We want the fellows who are working here to have a chance to organize, so that our mines won't be idle, while these 'scab' miners are running full time. The men want to come in but they're afraid."

"They tell me miners in Logan county are fighting now with Don Chafin," it was suggested.

"If they are, it is because they've been driven to it," was the answer.

"Americans want to live like Americans, but we can't do it now, down here. The whole state government and many of the county governments are working hand in glove with the non-union operators. I reckon you might say they own 'em. Seems that way to me, anyhow."

Nearby as a little band of men, perhaps twenty, each with the distinctive "red bandanna," the miners' "uniform" on his arm. Some of them were laughing and chatting as men will do, even in times of stress and excitement, and all about inconsequential things, too.

"And will you go home when federal troops get here?"

"We're not fighting Uncle Sam," was the answer. "We're fighting hoggish operators and mine thugs and spies. They're the fellows we're after. Many of us fought in the army over-seas. I did myself, but this isn't what we fought for, and we hope that when the troops get here they'll see that we get a square deal."

DUBLIN, Sept. 6.—The red flag of Bolshevism was hoisted over Cork harbor today. Striking dock workers seized the harbor offices, ejected the secretary of the harbor board, Sir James Long, and began collecting taxes and harbor dues. The leaders of the strike decided to form a Soviet. They hoisted the red flag and then established picket lines, defying anyone to pull down the red banner.

SILK STOCKING FAMINE

(By International News Service)

SAVANNAH, Ga., Sept. 6.—With a high demand for only the best, the women of this city are today facing the greatest shortage in silk stockings in local history, according to merchants, who claim strike conditions in the North make it impossible to secure enough silk hose to meet the increasing demand.

Merchants say the women do not care for cotton or lisle thread, but demand full-fashioned silk. They claim the mock fashion hose will not do because of baggy qualities encountered about the calf.

The shortage particularly applies to white hose. Local women do not favor the half hose, it is claimed.

EXPOSITION ENDS IN GLOW OF FRIENDSHIP

Well-Satisfied Exhibitors Distribute and Receive Prizes on Last Night—Boys Eat Pie—Chamber of Commerce Officials Spread Gospel of Good Will

As a finale to the Glendale Merchants' Exposition revue, the various cups were awarded to the exhibitors at the show on Saturday night, as were the prizes offered by the various merchants to holders of lucky numbers. The first prize cup for pure food exhibitors went to the Sunsweet Pitted Prune booth. A silver cup for the most novel exhibit at the show went to the Glendale Sheet Metal Works. Dr. C. S. Steelman was the winner of a cup awarded for the most original booth, and the Glendale Electric Co. captured the award for the most attractive display in the tent.

The automobile spotlight given away to the holder of a lucky number was won by J. P. Orr of this city. Helen Beveridge, 157 South Central avenue, was the winner of the floor lamp given away by the Russell Furniture Co. Lester Marstend was given the phonograph offered by the Barnes-Shuck Music Co., as a prize in their guessing contest. To win this prize it was necessary to estimate the amount of phonograph needles in a jar at the Barnes-Shuck booth. Mr. Marstend missed the correct number by one needle.

J. A. West, 112 West Windsor road, was the winner of the Miller tire offered by the Wm. H. Hooper Co. The second prize offered by the same company was an inner tube and was awarded to Thomas H. Plum, 343 Milford street. Four other prizes of five gallons of gasoline each were given to George F. Spenced, Mrs. A. L. Ferguson, C. M. Straight and C. W. Farmer. Other prizes, too numerous to mention, and aggregating $345 in merchandise, were awarded in the regular drawing from admission tickets.

Pie-Eating Contest

One of the features of the evening was the old, reliable, laugh-provoking pie-eating contest. There were about 50 boys on the runway, each armed with a nice, juicy pie, furnished by the Sunsweet Pitted Prune booth, and baked by the Fancy Bakery of this city. One little chap entered in the contest had, evidently, never participated in a contest of this kind before, for when he was handed his pie by the director, he asked where he could find a fork. When the starting signal was given, each boy sank his face in his pie, and the result was startling.

GLENDALE K. OF P. TO MAKE RECORD AT INITIATIONS

Glendale Lodge No. 331, Knights of Pythias, will cooperate with the 26 lodges of that fraternity composing the 30th convention district of California, in staging what will probably be the largest Page Rank initiation ever attempted in Southern California, by sending a class of initiates to Tournament Park, Pasadena, next Friday evening, which is Admission Day.

All lodges within 100 miles have been invited. The class will doubtless contain several hundred initiates. The stadium will seat 5000 Pythians. Admission to the ceremonies is free, by password only. Chancellor Commander E. Fram is on the reception committee and will be there to invest members of the Glendale lodge with the password.

Glendale has accepted a challenge from Van Nuys for a membership drive, and the lodge getting the most new members by the end of the year will be banqueted by the losers.

The Knights of Pythias is now the largest American-born fraternity. This class initiation is part of an order-wide move to increase the membership to a million when the supreme lodge meets in California next year, with excellent prospects of getting its quota.

The grand chancellor, Hon. J. Stanley Brown, will speak on Friday night. Jack Linney is master of ceremonies, Chief Deputy Howes is managing the event, which is known as a Warren G. Harding Page Rank class. The President is a prominent member of the fraternity, as is Mayor Cryer, who received wired greetings on his recent inaugural. A large delegation will be in Pasadena at 8 o'clock next Friday night with candidates.

SURPRISE WEDDING ANNIVERSARY FETE

T. L. Hull and wife, of 328 West Colorado street, were surprised Sunday by visits from 17 relatives, who came to congratulate them on the seventh anniversary of their marriage. The group included S. M. Karicoe, son of Mrs. Hull, his wife and three children, of Sierra Madre; Lee Hull, son of L. T. Hull, and his daughter, Marie, of Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cummins, brother and sister-in-law of Mrs. T. L. Hull, of Whittier; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Baker, daughter and son-in-law of Mrs. T. L. Hull; Miss Thelma Cummins, of Indianapolis, granddaughter of Walter Cummins; Florie Guston, of Los Angeles, and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Ferryman of Logansport, Ind.

Tom and Mollie, the honorees, were at home, and made very welcome the guests, who had brought party refreshments of ice cream and cake with them. Old Glory floated over the group, and Mr. and Mrs. Hull reluctantly said goodby to the group, with urgent invitations to come again next year.

SUNDAY SERVICES AT CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Rev. L. F. Stephens of Los Angeles filled the pulpit at Central Christian Church Sunday, morning and evening. The morning sermon was from the Golden Text of the Bible, John 3:16, which most people know by heart. He dwelt on the depth of God's love reaching down into the bottomless pit and never ceasing its entreaties to the wretched sinner until death ends all hopes: the length of God's love, reaching from the foundation of the world to the end of time; the witness of God's love in that it takes in those of every race and nation. God's love provides everything for our wants and as the world advances in needs and knowledge, new discoveries are made of God's wonderful provision. One instance was cited—in the world's infancy wood was all that seemed necessary for warmth, and for building purposes. Then coal was discovered, then oil, and other bounties of nature. But the greatest of all of God's gifts, as stated in the text, is His Son, "that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish but have everlasting life."

The evening discourse was from the text in Acts 9:15, where God told Annanias to go to Saul of Tarsus, who had been stricken down on his way to Damascus, and instruct him in the new way. The speaker said God always provided the an for every emergency. In this case an apostle to the Gentiles was needed and God chose the persecutor of His son Jesus, as the proper one, though the world would have said he was impossible. But Saul was a Jew of the Jews, brought up in the straightest sect of the Pharisees, taught at the feet of Gamaliel, and learned in all the lore of Jews and Greeks. He became as zealous an advocate of the Christ as he had been persecutor. He was true to his convictions, full of courage, sympathetic, determined, persevering, always ready. He was a shining example to the evangelist of God's word for all time to come.

Rev. Stephens went over to Van Nuys in the afternoon, accompanied by some members of the Glendale congregation, to dedicate the tabernacle recently erected by the Christian congregation of Van Nuys to worship in until the new church building can be erected.

WORK STARTS THIS MORNING

H. E. Betz this morning started work on the S. Berman building of South Brand, just below Elk avenue. He says its ground dimenions will be 50x60 feet, that it will be a one-story structure divided into three storerooms, one of which Mr. Berman will occupy himself as a merchant tailoring establishment. It will have an enameled brick front and will cost in the neighborhood of $7,000.

Jewelry is distinguished by its raised floral decoration, similar to what is used on Dresden china.

GLENDALE, CAL., VS. GLENDALE, O.

Mrs. Mary E. Shropshire and daughter, Lillian, have written employes of The Daily Press from Glendale, Ohio, a little town 15 miles from Cincinnati, which they heard of and visited from curiosity. On the postcards containing the communications is a picture of the high school building, which looks to be modern and quite beautiful.

In telling of the little town's attractions, Mrs. Shropshire underlines one statement, as follows: "And they have a postoffice," though it has but 2500 population. The druggist from whom the postcards were purchased said he got medicines from a Dr. Harrower of Glendale, Calif.

Mrs. Shropshire and Miss Lillian, accompanied by Miss Birdie, who lives in Cincinnati now, and whom they were visiting, went to Chicago to spend Labor Day with the son and brother, Charles. They go to Kansas City, Mo., this week, then to Canyon City, Colo., for brief visits and will then return home via San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Dunn have returned to their home at 704 North Maryland avenue from a two weeks' vacation, spent in the Redwood National Park. They report a very delightful time.

GLENDALE BUILDER TAKES CONTRACT AT BURBANK

H. E. Betz has taken the contract for the brick work on a building to be erected in Burbank by Dr. Thompson, at a cost which will probably total $25,000, as the brick work alone will cost between $8000 and $9000.

It is located on the northeast corner of Orange Grove avenue and San Fernando road, and is but one of the many improvements now going on in that thriving city, which is a close second to Glendale in its building activity at the present time.

BUSINESS LEASES AWAIT BUILDINGS

Brick work is about finished on the building which Oma Fish is erecting on West Broadway next to the Barton Garage. Although it is not yet ready for occupancy, it is said to have been leased to the Oldsmobile agency for five years. It occupies a ground space 50 by 90 feet, and the cost is about $8000.

The Julius Kranz building on North Brand is practically completed and two of his store rooms have been leased and are already occupied.

SUNDAY SCHOOL ENJOYS PICNIC

Nearly 150 members of the Central Christian Bible School and Church enjoyed a picnic at Brookside Park yesterday. A big dinner was enjoyed at noon and a watermelon feast at 3 p. m. There was a ball game between the Junior boys and the men, tug-of-war between teams of men, teams of boys, teams of girls and of women, and then the women were outpulled by the boys. Bathing in the plunge also attracted many.

PROGRAMME OF SCHOOLS OUTLINED FOR THIS YEAR

Superintendent R. D. White Outlines Work for Year in All Departments and Declares That Congestion May Be Expected—Urges Punctual Attendance

A general announcement covering the school activities for the year was issued today by Superintendent R. D. White. The announcement follows:

The first term of school will open on Monday, September 12, 1921. It is very important that every child should enter school on the first day and should thereafter be regular and punctual in his attendance. Any absence may be a serious menace to the child's standing in his classes.

Special Permits

The first day's enrollment in September, 1919 was 1,723 and in 1920 the first day's enrollment was 2,169, showing an increase of approximately 25 per cent. If the first day's enrollment this year shows the same percentage of increase, and we have every reason to believe that it will, all the schools in the city will be crowded and it will be necessary to make many adjustments by transfering children from one school to another. Under these conditions it will be impossible to grant permits to attend school in a district other than that of residence with the same freedom as heretofore. Parents desiring such permits should apply at the superintendent's office during the week before school opens. No permits will be issued until the second day of the school term, at which time it will be possible to determine what conditions are. Parents are requested therefore, even though they have applied for a permit, to send their children for the first two days of the term to the school in whose district they reside.

School Age

The legal age for entering school is six years. However, an allowance of three months is made. This means that in order to enter the first grade a child would have to be six on or before December 12, 1921. No beginner will be admitted after the close of the first month of the term.

Kindergartens

Kindergartens will be opened at the Columbus avenue, Colorado street, Broadway, Cerritos avenue, Pacific avenue, Central avenue and Doran street schools. The law states the kindergarten age to be from four and one-half to six years. This law is interpreted to mean that the child will have to be four and a half before the end of the third month of school, i. e. in this case, on or before December 12, 1921. No allowance is made for over age. Any child who is six years old or older on the day the term begins will not be admitted to the kindergarten. Such child may of course, enter school if the parents so desire. In order that the parent may have choice between the kindergarten and the school, the child must be between five years and nine months and six years old on the day the term begins.

Parents are advised not to send their children to kindergarten until they are at least four years and nine months old, for the following reasons: First, we have a kindergarten course of only one year and if a child finishes that before he has attained school age he will either have to drop out for a half year or take the same work over again in the kindergarten; Second, a child of five will get much more out of the kindergarten work than a child of four and a half.

Superintendent's Office Hours

For any further information call up the superintendent's office between the hours of nine and four, except on Saturdays and Sundays; the telephone is Glendale 593.

Intermediate School Registration

Intermediate school pupils who have not arranged their programs are requested to report to the school on Thursday and Friday, September 8 and 9, for the purpose of doing so.

Districts

Parents are urged to study the district lines as given below and to send their children to the school in whose district they reside, on the first day of the term. Please note carefully also, the grades that each school will enroll. These district lines are subject to change either for a whole school or for separate grades, if the first day's enrollment shows such a change to be necessary.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC JULY EARNINGS SHOW INCREASE

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 6.—With the Southern Pacific Company, considered one of the strong railroads of the United States, issuing its monthly statement of earnings and expenses for July showing a slight increase in net railway operating income over that of July 1920, an analysis of recent railroad earnings statements as a whole by the Bureau of Railway Economics comes as timely information, showing how relatively better results for recent months have been achieved by reductions which cannot be maintained if business revives and the roads are to be kept up to proper standards.

The showing for May and particularly for June indicates how severely maintenance has been cut during the past two or three months.

Necessary retrenchment led to an increase in bad order cars from 181,234 (8.5%) in January 1921 to 365,092 (15.9%) on June 15 and also a reduction in all transportation expenses (due to light business) such as reduction of men employed, in materials used, and fewer trains.

Notwithstanding these economies, the rate of return on the tentative valuation of the railways, reduced to an annual basis has averaged only 1.8% for the six months ending in June.

CONFIDENCE WOMAN OPERATES IN CITY

Police officers of Glendale are searching for a young man, who recently purchased a bill of goods from Mrs. L. Quackenbush, of the corset shop at 207 East Broadway, had the amount of the bill charged to her account, and gave as her address a vacant lot.

According to Mrs. Quackenbush's report to the police department, yesterday, the woman made purchases at the store amounting to $47.60 and gave her address as 1110 Melroose avenue. When the woman did not appear at the shop to settle the account Mrs. Quackenbush sent her son to investigate and discovered that 1110 Melrose avenue was a vacant lot.

It is alleged that the woman who is described as about 20 0years old, weight 140 pounds, with dark bobbed hair, has made similar attempts to open accounts with other merchants of lendale.

To Mr. Betz it was an interesting occasion because he used for the first time for pleasing a Reo truck he purchased recently for a combination business and pleasure wagon.

BOYS ROCK CAR

Small boys and rocks are a bad combination, at least S. B. Van Osdoll, 131 South Belmont street thinks so. Mr. Vanosdell reported to the police, that while driving on Doran street two small boys threw rocks at his machine breaking the lens on one of the lights. These boys, with their parents have been ordered to appear in court Wednesday morning, at 8 a. m.

USEFUL SERVANT OF MANKIND

Hard to Say What the World Would Do If Deprived of Carbonic Acid Gas.

The American constitution is now in a fair way to become saturated with carbonic acid gas. Reference is not made to the document signed by the forefathers, but to the constitution that gets run down every spring and has to be perked up with cod liver oil. Well, it won't be as bad as it sounds. Carbonic acid gas is quite harmless.

It's made from coke, and it is probably the most versatile servant that mankind has. It's like those medicines that the almanacs say are good for everything. It can put a kick in your ice-cream soda, or your lemon phosphate. It's in all fire extinguishers. It's used to harden steel. It's used in making sugar, to remove the lime from the juice of the cane. It's a refrigerating agent and also is used in making bicarbonate of soda, the substance one takes for heartburn. And it forms one of the chief curative agents used in the baths at such resorts as Neaheim in Europe and Saratoga in this country.

Manufacturers of carbonic gas in this country report that they have doubled their output in the last year because of the increased demand for carbonated beverages, or "soft drinks." At present, in round numbers, carbonic acid gas enters into 375,000,000 gallons of beverages in the United States. Figuring on sixteen drinks from a gallon, you have 6,000,000,000 soft drinks as the approximate consumption a year. Sixty sodas apiece.—Chicago Journal.

NEVER AGAIN FOR PLUMLEY

Victim of Unkind Suspicions Will Carry No More Stuff Home to Oblige the Wife.

Mr. Plumley was embarrassed and well might he be. For the suitcase he was carrying had sprung a leak! And as he walked swiftly through the crowd on the street it seemed that everyone glanced down at the leather bag, and saw that something was wrong. Curses on that prohibition law! Ever since it had been passed people noticed any one who carried a package—especially a suitcase.

A policeman eyed him suspiciously and Plumley hurried faster than ever, almost breaking into a run. He boarded a street car and placed the bag on the floor in front of him, trying to cover it with his feet as much as possible. It was useless. The stuff continued to trickle out and soon formed a miniature pool. Some of the red-nosed male passengers looked envious; straphangers saw it and smiled; even the ignorant-appearing wop in the next seat looked wise! But all Plumley could do was to turn several colors and wish them all in hades!

In something like a year the car arrived at his suburban home.

"Were you able to get any?" asked his wife at once.

"Yes," said Plumley, throwing the suitcase to the floor with a bang, "plague take 'em! Those are the last oysters I'll ever carry home!"

ROMANCE OF RIVER LIGHTS

Flashlight Messages Fly Between Gobs on the Hudson and Girls Ashore in New York.

Sitting in their apartment windows on warm summer nights trying to get cool, many girls along Riverside drive amuse themselves by "blinking" messages by flashlight to the sailors on the navy craft anchored in the Hudson, the New York Sun states.

"Oh, I wish I had something to read. I wish I had something to read," was the message which some quartermaster was blinking away aimlessly the other night when:

"What do you like—romance, love, mystery, sea adventure or detective stories?" came the barely discernible twinkle from the eleventh floor window of a big apartment house in the 90s.

"Romance," flashed back the gob. "Real stuff."

And then the first chapter of a wonderful romance was blinked off and the second chapter was being enjoyed when the mist and fog descended on the river.

"Sorry, but can't read any longer tonight," blinked the gob, who already had met the young woman of the blinker romance, which is taking a serious turn.

"You wait and see," predicts one young lady who is intercepting the messages each night. "Those messages are endearing and, oh, well, what girl wouldn't enjoy being courted so romantically?"

BE A REAL FRIEND

Sometimes you have been surprised when a friend or an acquaintance has done something indiscreet and the violation has been such that it has been recorded in a newspaper.

Usually the first step you take is to avoid meeting that one, because you fear that association with that person may lead others to think that you are of the same sort.

Quite likely you will be open in your expression of surprise and censure.

But this course is unkind, and is certainly not helpful.

You would not have to search your mind very far back to call to memory a number of things you have done which, if they had been found out in a way to gain newspaper notoriety, would not look any better in print than these stories of your friend.

They why persecute the person more than has been done already?

Why not do some nice thing—some small courtesy—to show your good will?

You need not act as if you approved of wrongdoing—far from it.

But a kind word, a handshake, to show that you, too, are human, may be the means of sincere effort at reform which would be lost otherwise.

THERE'S A CHANCE FOR YOU

You may feel that because of your inability in early life to get the foundational education you wished and now realize is so desirable it is of no use for you to try for higher education, since you have passed 25 or the other side of 40.

You would like to hold a higher position, but think it is impossible.

Psychologists are making a study of just such cases.

Their tests are not based upon what you know, but upon the sort of mentality you display, as to what your prospects are for future advance.

If you are intelligent, have normal mental capacity, there is no reason why you should not take up something you wish if your desire is hard enough—that is, if you are enough in earnest to work.

Too many persons want big things, but they are soft when it comes to digging into study with continued concentration.

If you are old enough to think clearly you know that the worth-while things are not learned in a minute.

It is the desire, backed by the will to do and the faculty for keeping everlastingly at it, which gets results and attains success.

There might have been another story if the devil had caught Job on a dusty road without a spare tire and aranged a blowout a mile from a shade tree.

Europe doesn't have to spend months scrapping about a tariff law in order to keep out high-priced American goods.

One thing that discourages building is the fact that landlords can't put up houses and rents at the same time.

Another objection to disarmament is that the nations may demand that America dismantle Sergeant York.

Another thing half the world doesn't know in this era of house shortage is where the other half lives.

If he will, a man can live to please his God. But it is humanly impossible to please all the reformers.

LACK OF PROFITS CLOSES MEXICAN MINING CAMPS

MEXICO CITY, Mexico, Sept. 6—Mexico is facing the prospect of another dreary, workless winter for the masses.

Mining is still stagnant. Some of the mines which resumed operations at the time President Obregon issued his decree to stimulate the mining industry and give employment to the idle miners, have shut down.

Closing of mines is reported from theS tates of Coahula, Chihuahua, Durango, San Luis Potosi, Aguassalientes and other sections.

Most of the properties closed are silver mines, the owners declaring that they have been unable to operate at a profit.

Crop shortage and actual crop failure reported in some places have added to the gravity of the situation.

While gloomy reports are coming from many principal agricultural sections, news from Tampico indicates improvement in the oil situation there where new wells have been brought in.

FOURTH DIMENSION PRESENTED BY DR. F. L. RILEY

The "Fourth Dimension," and its relation to the "Einstein Theory," was the two-headed subject which Dr. F. L. Riley treated at the New Thought center Sunday morning.

The doctor, in quoting Einstein, stated that while a ray of light travels at the rate of 186,000 miles a second, "it does not travel in a straight line," and "all known measurements are therefore erroneous."

The blackboard was resorted to in illustrating the bug, buried deep in the ground which, in working its way up to the surface, follows the "line of first dimension." It then works on "flatland," the surface of things, as a caterpiller, in the "second dimension." It then develops into a butterfly, negotiating all known dimensions (to the present senses), or "third dimension." Then, for the "fourth dimension," what?

The lecturer drew a cube in illustrating the three dimensions, and suggested as the fourth a line at right angles to the cube.

In leading up to the fourth dimension, he stated that particular attention should be paid to admonitions found in Matthew, sixth chapter, such as: "The hypocrites do in the synagogues for the glory of men"; "they love to pray in the synagogues that they may be seen"; "use not vain repetitions as the heathen do."

He laid particular stress upon the sixth verse, "But thou, when thou prayest, enter into thy closet, and when thou hast shut thy door, pray to thy Father, which is in secret." He stated that in all probability, all present had heard this passage read many times, but asked who understood the esoteric meaning of it. It cannot be correctly interpreted literally, he declared, and yet, as all the old orthodox schools still teach literal interpretation, the so-called "sixty thousand orthodox ministers of this country alone," are forced to do the same or evolve into heretics.

"Correctly and allegorically interpreted," he said, "the body is 'the temple of God,' the 'closet' is consciousness and the 'five doors' the five senses.

"The five senses are understood," he said. "The modern scientific scholars claim and demonstrate that the sixth sense is dawning upon mankind. The human race has been about 18 million years attaining its present status."

Illustrating the evolution of the races, he touched upon the "despised Hindoo." The Hindoos, as ourselves, belong to the fifth sub-race of the fifth root race of the Aryans, he declared.

It is claimed that but 11 persons in the world understand the "fourth dimension," or Einstein theory. The lecturer claimed that until the sixth sense is fully understood it cannot be understood by anyone, but as, absolutely speaking, we were never born, never will grow old, and will never die, as it will require only a few million years to acquire the sixth sense, as one of 'God's days' was 400,000,000 years, we should not unduly concern ourselves about such trifles.

THE HUTCHINSONS ARE HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hutchinson and family of North Orange street who have just returned from a sojourn of about six weeks in the Yosemite Valley report great benefit from the rest, the change and the outdoor life, particularly Mr Hutchinson.

Mrs. Hutchinson warns all who have not visited the park to make a point of going early. When she first reached it all the falls were flowing and everything green and fresh. When she left the greenery in many places had become dry and dusty and Yosemite fall was entirely dry. The Navada and Vernal Falls were still beautiful and Bridal Veil was still the sport of the winds. The valley was full of people, however. She says that during the first week in July 10,000 visitors registered.

Nice programs were given nightly at Camp Curry and Yosemite for the entertainment of valley guests and one night when the lights had been turned out for the fire fall from hanging rock, some one sang most beautifully, "Silver Threads Among the Gold." When the lights were again turned on the discovery was made that that singer was Richard Jose, the maker of the famous record of that song.

Mrs. Hutchinson has called a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Tuesday Afternoon Club for next Wednesday which will be followed by other committee meetings including that of the building committee.

The club year will begin the first Tuesday in October.

DR. ECKLES ENROUTE NORTH

Dr. J. C. Eckles is motoring to a point near the Yosemite Valley to look over a tuberculosis sanitarium there in which a friend is interested. He said he would camp by the way and make some side trips and would be gone about a week.

FAITH OF NOAH IS SHIBBOLETH TO CHRISTIANITY

Rev. R. C. Morgan delivered an extremely absorbing sermon at the First Baptist Church, Sunday morning. He took his subject from the seventh verse of the eleventh chapter of Paul—"By faith Noah being warned of God of things not seen as yet, mover of fear prepared an ark for the safety of his house."

He said in part: "Noah was a believer in God. And he was a worker, for God, although he did not make a convert outside of his own house. Noah persisted. God grant that by following his example we may be able to bring many to him. Not only does the Bible tell us that there was a flood, but science proves that fact. The things of which Noah was warned did not seem possible to take place. God has warned the nations again and again of their weakness. He warns us of the calamities that are to come. You and I have been warned of things that are to take place. Here are a few of the things of which we have been warned: Of the mortality of the flesh, of the immortality of our existence, of the second coming of Christ, of the resurrection of the body, of the execution of sentence and the punishment of the wicked, of the glories and the splendor of Heaven.

"But of the time and the event of our departure we know nothing. That we are going we are sure of. Only the time we will draw our last breath, fight our last battle is an uncertainty. We are going to die some time, some place. There is sure to come a time when we will take the last look into the faces of our loved ones. How we will go we do not know, but that we are going is a certainty.

"Can it be possible that God erected us for a few hours? To breathe only for a few hours, then to be turned over to the fowls and the fishes? We die because we have sinned. The sin in Eden brought death. Would you like to leave the world without seeing death? I prefer to see death. I would not choose the death of Enoch and Elijah. I want to die like my Lord. I want to go through death and to know what it means to triumph over death.

"The immortality of the flesh. If, like a cat, when you cease to breathe you cease to be, what would it profit us to live this life? At death we do not cease to exist. We are warned by the Scriptures that we continue to live. At death the soul enters on a separate existence. The spirit returns to God, the body to the grave. We carry our memory and conscienceness with us. Fear not him who destroys the body, but fear ye him who is able to destroy both body and soul in hell.

"The return of Christ. Christ has said that he will come again. 'I will return again to retrieve you unto myself,' he said. He will come with all of the holy angels, to gather together all nations. He will separate the sheep from the goats. This separation will be thorough. I want to be active in the awarding of prizes We must all appear before the justice seat of Christ. He has said that he will come suddenly. 'Behold I come quickly,' he said; 'like the flash of lighting, and as unexpectedly as the thief in the night.' He will come with clouds of glory. The sky will be abloom with his splendor. Where wilt thou hide from his face? Realizing this, what manner of men and women should we be?

"The resurrection. The dead must rise again. God declares it. Long before Moses was born people believed this truth. 'Abraham believed it, Daniel believed it. Christ said: 'The hour is coming when all men shall hear his voice.' If the talking machine, made by man, can brink back the voice of the dead, how much more can God bring back our bodiesand voices?

"The execution of sentence. If there is no hell there is no Heaven. Some people present arguments against the belief of hell. I plead with you not believe them. God is a jealous God. If God spared not his own son, how much more will he spare you and I?

"There is a land faraway. I look beyond the stars. What do I see? How far can I see? In visions I can see wonderful things. I can see the second coming of Christ and can hear the angels singing. 'How blessed is he who cometh in the name of the Lord!' Heaven is a home and a harbor. It is a true friend. We take the word of men with regard to earthly things, why can we not take the word of God with regard to Heavenly things?"

ROAD OF DEATH IN RUSSIA IS SEEN BY ONE WOMAN

NOTE—Anna Louise Strong, the first American woman reporter to reach Moscow since the famine, now is enroute to the Samara district, where starvation and plague are taking toll of lives by the thousands daily. All along the route the special relief train is met by hordes of refugees telling of the plight of at least 40 million men, women and children.

By ANNA LOUISE STRONG

(Special Correspondent of the International News Service. Copyright 1921, by International News Service).

EN ROUTE FROM MOSCOW TO SAMARA, Sept. 2.—(By Courier to Moscow, by radio to Berlin and by cable to New York, via London, Sept. 6.—The train on which I am traveling to soviet Russia's death district—Samara—is a combined hospital and kitchen on wheels.

It contains food cars, kitchen cars and a dispensary car; a waiting room for patients, staff quarters, a bake house, a kitchen, a bath and a laundry, all large enough to accommodate 4000 children.

Saving Children

For it is primarily to the children that the relief workers are devoting their initial labors. Althogether thirty thousand of emaciated little ones must be removed at once from the pest-infested region. In Samara city alone there are 4,000 who have been abandoned by their parents. In another district there are 600,000, of whom 194,000 are between seven and sixteen.

Does it make your blood freeze in your vejns to read that mothers leave their children on the doorsteps of railroad stations, "take them, we don't want them."

Does it make you shudder with horror at such cruelty?

Mother Love

Listen, to call these unfortunate women "cruel" is a slur on motherhood, and mockery of their sufferings. The mothers who do that do it because they can bear no longer to see their little ones stare at them with questioning, accusing eyes: because they can no longer listen to the rasping, hunger-hoarse voices begging for food: because they can no longer stand the pain of babes clutching and tearing and tugging at their haggard breasts; because they have not the strength to hold them any longer. Someone, anyone else, they think, can, must, will do more for these tots than they can.

American Relief

The train on which we are rolling through barren steppes filled with refugees is drawn by a German locomotive, one of the gifts received since the world began to realize Russia's plight. It carries bread donated by peasants who have been blessed with a fair harvest and who gave all their surplus to the sufferers. Food tats and beans donated by the American society of friends, make up the balance of the rations.

We roll along slowly, or so slowly, when every mile gained or lost means probably a thousand lives or deaths. The news of our coming travels ahead of us, first by telegraph, then by courier.

It is a thrilling thought that we represent to those millions of suffering humans the answer to their prayers and an infinitely sad second thought that—because of the world blockade—we will be too late for innumerable victims.

A doctor who had been out there in deathland( and who is going back on this train, told me of the terrible sights he saw.

"Hunger of that kind, you know, is so depressing, so weakening, that if you let a piece of food fall to the midst of such a group of human corpses who have had nothing to eat but ground roots, they just stare at it with distended eyes, but they do not move. Perhaps one or two will faintly lift a hand—an unspeakable gesture of despair, for it has scarcely been lifted when it drops back, limp and lifeless. They are too weak, you see, even to grasp the thing that will soothe their gnawing pain and perhaps save their lives.

"But the most pitiable of all sights is that of mothers trying to nurse their children—trying—, you know, for that's all."

Chamber of Commerce Booster Rally Tonight

C. Cooper, president of the board of directors of the chamber, and Attorney Owen Emery, member of the board.

The next number will be a vocal solo, "The Sunshine of Your Smile," by Miss Lilian Byington, dramatic soprano of the community service organization, Los Angeles.

Following this number, Mr. Sanders will announce the continued membership drive and the appointment of committees, this to be followed by a cornet duet entitled, "Ida and Dottie," by L. E. Wilbur and C. K. Aston.

After this number, Miss Bebe Daniels, the noted motion picture actress, will present a feature.

Chamber Expert

At this point of the program, Sylvester L. Weaver, president of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, will deliver an address, following which Bert Roach, of Universal City, will render a vocal solo. The congratulation to new members and a vote of thanks to participants will then be given by Secretary James A. Rhoades of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce.

A vocal solo, "Sunbeams,' will be given by Miss Vivian Aston of the vocal department of the Glendale Dramatic Art studio. Community singing of "The Star-Spangled Banner," will then be led by Marion Tracy Whiing, director of community singing at West Lake and Exposition parks, Los Angeles.

A number of other celebrities in the motion picture world have promised to be on hand and assist in the program.

Bigger Glendale

"We are preparing for the biggest time Glendale has ever known,' said Secretary Rhoades this morning. "We are getting the people of Glendale together to tell them that we need their cooperation and assistance. The time has come when the Glendale Chamber of Commerce must have more members. We have a wonderful opportunity to do a wonderful work and if the people of Glendale will back us up, we certainly will do it. With what little we have had to do with we have put Glendale on the map, and with three times the number of members we can do three times that amount of work. Just the other day, an auto tourist came into the Glendale Chamber of Commerce office and said, 'I just want you to know that I heard of Glendale long before I reached California. At practically every camping park at which we stopped on our way to Southern California there was one, and in some cases several, who were bound for Glendale. They had heard of this city, principally through the literature sent out by the local Chamber of Commerce. You cannot realize the amount of good you are doing for your city. It seems as though everyone back there is talking of Glendale and all those who are talking are hoping and expecting that some day they will be able to make this city their home.'

"This just gives us a little idea of what the Glendale chamber is doing. We want to do more and we will be able to do so if the people of Glendale will stand back of us."

The program starts at 7:15 and the fireworks will continue until 10:30.

GLENDALE MEN SAVE A WOMAN'S LIFE

Thomas Kennedy, of 202 Fairview avenue, distinguished himself late Sunday afternoon by assisting in the rescue of Mrs. V. Juntson of 533 West Third street, Long Beach. Mr. Kennedy was assisted by Bert S. Coleman, marine editor, of the Los Angeles Herald.

Mrs. Juntson was caught by a rip tide and although she fought frantically to reach the shore she was carried farther and farther out to sea. Seeing the unfortunate woman's plight young Kennedy and Coleman went to her rescue. They struggled for at least half an hour before they were able to bring her safely to shore.

SIDELIGHTS AT THE LOCAL EXPOSITION

The Coker & Taylor Plumbing Company, 209 South Brand boulevard, has sold during the exposition, three Pittsburg heaters, 20 Direct-action gas range equipped with the Lorraine regulators, two sets of bathroom fixtures and an extra lavatory. One of the sets of bathroom fixtures was sold by Miss Dorothy Morton, was was employed in the booth.

Max Green was in personal charge of the Green & McClellan booth last night. This firm is located at 115 West Harvard street.

Ray Galvin was in the Tanner & Hall booth Saturday night. He reports that his firm has sold nine cars during the show. That's going some. No wonder they say that business is good.

AIRPLANE SPRAYS TREES

DAYTON, Sept. 6.—The possibility of the airplane in assisting crops was demonstrated by McCook Field fliers and a French aviator at Orchard Grove, near here, when several planes took up insect-killing liquids and other germicides and sprayed trees.

The experiment was made on a grove of catalpa trees and was watched by a large crowd of farmers. The test was pronounced a great success, and a full report, it is said, will be made to the Federal Agricultural Department.

CAT EARNS ITS BOARD

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal., Sept. 6—Mrs. G. W. Smith, who resides near Claremont, has a cat that earns his own board. His name is Tiger, and every day for some time he has been going out into fields near the Smith home and bringing back rabbits.

When thoroughly scrubbed and cleaned, said cottontail furnishes meat for the Smith family. And a choice, well-cooked piece always goes to Tiger. He is happy. And he's cutting down the high cost of living for the Smith family.

UNLIKE THE OLD-TIME DUEL

Recent Affair of Honor in Paris Actually Appears to Have Been Carefully "Chaperoned."

Not long ago a quarrel broke out between a subprefect and the secretary general of the prefecture in a department of the west. Feeling ran so high that blows were exchanged. Exchanged? No, not quite. The word isn't quite exact. If they had really been exchanged, both the enemies might have thrown up the sponge. But there was bestowal of slaps by one of the functionaries and simple reception without return by the other. That was serious! Only blood could adequately wash the offended cheek!

They secured their witnesses, named the day and bought themselves swords. But the prefect found out about it. At first he tried to effect a reconciliation between the two foes. Vain effort! Then he tried to use his authority to forbid their fighting. Useless threat! They offered him two heroic resignations to win the right to get themselves killed.

"Well, then, have your confounded throats cut, if you want to!" he cried. "But you shall assist at the combat and I'll hold you responsible for the lives of both of them," he said to the chief clerk of the prefecture. "If anybody gets hurt I shall discharge you!"

The chief clerk obeyed without a murmur. He chaperoned the encounter with a huge sword in his hand, and whenever a blow seemed dangerous, he warded off the murderous weapon. In the end they made it up, and the prefect was content.—From Le Crie, Paris.

Benjamin Franklin Versatile.

A large part of Benjamin Franklin's repute, in the mind of the layman, is due to the fact that he received a bad shock from a key at the end of a kite, and found out that lightning and electricity had something in common. As a matter of fact, he invented the harmonica, advocated daylight saving, and beside his numerous achievements as a philosopher, publicist and patriot, was the first to use bi-focal lenses. He had weak eyes, and invented them for his own use at first; they were so successful that they soon became popular.

LOCAL NIMRODS BAG LIMIT AS HUNTING SEASON OPENS

With the dove season less than one week old, Gus Wagenheim of Neale & Gregg Harware co., has issued more than 55 hunting licenses. Several local nimrods have already bagged the limit, and are enthusiastically contemplating new conquests before the hunting season ends September 30.

The best hunting grounds, according to Mr. Wagenheim are; above Saugus, in the San Fernando hills, Bouquet Canyon, Mint Canyon, Elsinore and Santa Ana Canyon. Mr. Wagenheim has established an information bureau regarding hunting and fishing, and announces that he is willing to answer any and all questions pertaining to these sports.

While dove hunting is attracting many Glendale sportsmen, there are a few who have not forsaken the rod and reel. Messrs. Wagenheim and Saunders headed a party to Capistrano Sunday, to spend the week end surf fishing. While at Capistrano, Mr. Wagenheim made a short trip inland for a few shots at doves.

B. F. Scott and J. C. McDonald headed parties that spent the week-end trout fishing.

While 85 hunting licenses have been issued by Mr. Wagenheim for the dove season in the district, only seven have been issued in Glendale, to the following: Ray Bentley, W. Gilbert, Francis Foy, E. J. Foy, Charles Smith, C. Ambrosch and Harold Ambrosch.

C. Ambrosch and his son Harold, will spend a vacation of about 10 days in the Yosemite.

GLENDALE TO HAVE NEW PAINT STORE

H. T. Stevens, well known resident of Glendale, will open a new paint store in this city about September 10. The new store will be located at 219½ East Broadway.

Mr. Stevens is at present connected with a paint store in Santa Ana, and another in Glendale.

REV. C. A. COLE WILL REACH HOME FRIDAY

A postcard received from Rev. C. O. Cole, written at Winona Lake, Ind., August 30, says the International Convention of Disciples of Christ, which he went to attend, opened most auspiciously. He preached on Sunday morning, August 21, in the Compton Heights Christian Church in St. Louis, where he ministered for four years before coming to Glendale, and in the afternoon assisted in the funeral services over the body of C. E. Wright, a nephew of Mrs. Eva Hutton of Glendale and a young man of wonderful promise. Rev. Cole says it has been almost unbearably hot during his trip in the east but that crops are good everywhere. He expected to start for home yesterday and arrive in Glendale Friday afternoon about 3 o'clock.

FELLING DEAD TREE COSTS GOOD MONEY

The giant eucalyptus trees, some of them 150 feet high and more than four feet in diameter that are a distinctive feature of Lomita avenue, are expensive luxuries when they have to be removed. One of the largest, between Brand and Louise street, which has died and is to be removed because of its unsightliness, by the new owners of the 100-foot lot on the parkway of which it stands, is to come down this week, and the lowest bid received for the job was $200. The highest was $325. These trees are more than 50 years old and line what was once the central roadway of the old Crowe ranch, later Goodell's, between Glendale avenue and Central avenue, as the roads are now called.

Longer skirts as well as dresses of a sober black and white are destined to become the style for the coming fall and winter!

"BACK TO FARM" IS URGED TO SOLVE UNEMPLOYMENT

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 6.—A "Back to the Farm" movement would be a wholesome remedy for the present unemployment problem facing the country in the opinion of Hardy W. Campbell, Farm Advisor for the Southern Pacific Company and well known agricultural authority, who has returned to his offices in San Francisco after visiting various farming sections along the Southern Pacific lines, inspecting crop conditions and speaking before groups of farmers.

Campbell is the author of several books on agriculture and is an exponent of the doctrine of proper tillage in relation to crop production. He recently delivered five lectures in Montana and induced a number of ranchers in that state, where the prospects for the wheat crop were gloomy, to adopt improved methods which he advocated, with the result that the properties worked by these men now give promise of very satisfactory returns this season.

Desert Acres

"There are hundreds of thousands of acres of semi-arid lands in this Great West," said Campbell, "which if properly farmed would provide a livelihood for a vast population. My experience has ranged over many years in all parts of the West from Nebraska and Kansas to the Pacific Slope and I know that good production can be obtained from land where there is but slight rainfall and where as a matter of fact many farmers have met disaster through the lack of proper knowledge as to the correct course to pursue in preparing these lands and putting in their crops.

"The chief trouble in many instances of crop failure is that the ranchers who lost out lacked the knowledge as to how to handle their land, and in this connection I sincerely hope that many farmers will take advantage of the Farmers' Short Courses offered by the University of California. 'Knowledge is power' and if the acreages lying idle in this state and other western states were farmed according to scientific teachings, practically applied, this country would receive a great impetus towards prosperity.

"I believe that better crops can be obtained by better preparation of the seed bed, drilling instead of sowing in the case of wheat, and similar crops, and proper cultivation. In the case of wheat and other cereal crops I have found that the general practice has been to use too much seed. By using a smaller quantity of seed and different methods of preparing the land, good crops of wheat and barley have been grown by various ranchers under my direction in Kern and Riverside counties and Northern California, in Nevada and in other sections along the Southern Pacific lines, where neighboring ranchers had crop failures, on account of light rainfall.

"With a large amount of semi-arid land available at low prices, it would seem to me that if men would learn the right way of procedure, and go back on the land, many of our problems would be solved.

"I believe the business men of the country fail to realize the wonderful possibilities of these lands. If they would cooperate to aid this movement to the land they would in the end benefit as well as those whom they assist."

BEHOLD, THE ICEMAN!
By W. R. Adams

[Note: The Glendale ice man, suffering from the cold-hearted actions of his patrons, here appeals for a little cooperation.—Editor.]

Did you ever shake hands with an iceman,
And in reurn, give a hearty grip?
Or, did you stand 40 feet from him
With a frown, and a pout on your lip?
Did you ever have your icebox ready
When he knocked on your latched screen door?
Or did you say, "I'll be there in a minute,"
And then make him wait three or four?
Do you know there are other folks waiting
Who want their butter and milk ice-cold,
And are waiting to greet the same iceman—
With a smile? Oh, no, just a pole!
Now consider, kind folks, and have patience;
He'll get there as soon as he can;
He isn't a well-oiled machine, folks,
But only a hard-working man.

Bonner's Winning Battle

By FREDERICK CLARKE

(©, 1921, Western Newspaper Union.)

Bonner sat at the long table in the room of the Griffis Mailing company, addressing envelopes. Bonner could write twelve hundred a day, which netted him two dollars, and that meant a fair living at the hotel.

While he wrote he was watching the girl with the fair hair who, at another table, was busily sealing the envelopes with sponge and water-well. He had noticed her during the entire four days that he had worked for that particular company.

The girl was quiet and refined; she worked—how hard she worked! Bonner had walked home with her the evening before. She lived alone in a mean room in a meaner tenement, for which she paid three dollars a week to a hard-faced landlady, and she coughed incessantly. She was working to get the money to go west, where the clean air would cure her. She had seventy dollars saved by two years of toil, and she needed a hundred. Would she gain it before it was too late?

Bonner had forty-nine dollars. His room cost him a dollar and forty cents weekly, and he lived on food snatched at cheap lunch counters. Once he had been a civil engineer; then he gave way to the drink passion, a hereditary disease. He had addressed envelopes for two years; he found the labor one which permitted his thoughts to roam unchallenged and he had become the automaton that all addressers grow to be. He saved his money because he knew that soon the dreadful craving would clutch him by the throat again.

As Bonner went out he saw the girl's eyes fixed pityingly on his own.

Three hours later Bonner stood on the same block, fighting madly against his overwhelming passion. He had never fought so hard, but he knew that he could resist no longer. He pulled out his money and counted it, then turned back toward the saloon. Then he found his way barred and looked up into the face of the fair-haired girl. She had stopped impulsively and now stood before him, her hands outstretched.

"What is the matter?" she asked. "You are ill?"

An agony of remorse swept over him. He turned away into the empty yard of a factory and she followed him.

"Listen!" he said fiercely. "I am not ill—only fighting with my personal devil—the drink devil. You don't know what a devil that is. Take all my money." He thrust the bills into her hand. "Take it and go away and be cured. The money will save your life and I shall always remember that."

"O!" she cried impulsively, "we are both fighting losing battles. You, too! I knew! I knew you were suffering when I saw you in that room."

"Losing" battles. What if he should fight again, fight to win, as he might have fought if Edith had stood by him! A sudden resolution came into his soul and nerved his will to steel. He took her by the hands.

"Would you stand by me to the end, girl, if I fought to win?" he asked, and she nodded bravely.

"Then," he said triumphantly, "let us fight our battles together. Not here, but in the West, where one has a chance to live, or one can die under the broad sky—as men and women should die or live. Will you?"

Suddenly the dirty factory yard had become an ante-chamber of heaven.

Canada's Timber.

One-third of Canada's standing timber is estimated to be spruce, of which there may be between 100,000,000,000 and 150,000,000,000 board feet suitable for lumber, besides 300,000,000 or 400,000,000 cords of pulp-wood. Possibly one-half of the total is not at present commercially accessible. Consul Felix S. S. Johnson reports that of the five Canadian species, red spruce is confined to the maritime provinces and eastern Quebec; white spruce and black spruce extend from the Atlantic to Alaska and northward to the mouth of the Mackenzie; Sitka spruce grows only in the Pacific coastal region, and Engelman spruce is plentiful in the mountainous interior of southern British Columbia. Sitka spruce, which reaches a diameter of 8 to 12 feet and a hight of 160 to 180 feet, was found during the war to have a special value for aircraft framework. Canada's spruce production in 1919 was $44,000,000 in timber, and $28,000,000 in pulp-wood.

Trailing Criminals by Plane.

The use of bloodhounds to trail criminals has been widely practiced for many years, but the use of the airplane to transport them quickly to the scene of the crime and enable them to pick up a "hot trail" is a new development.

In Colorado Springs a pack of the man trailers has been trained to ride in an airplane, and their first flight other than for practice, was to Buena Vista, Col., 120 miles away, where a store was robbed and a safe blown open by bandits. Two hours after the call was received the hounds were on the scent, and tracked the men to a lonely ravine, where they had parked their car. The officers were thus able to learn the direction taken by the criminals and made a capture that night.

Patent-medicine men filled their almanacs with ancient jokes to show their skill in prolonging life.

Inclination in all Europe—particularly in Paris, seems to be toward the simpler styles of dress—and but little in the way of colors is being worn.

THE DEAREST RING

By MIZPAH F. BUCKINGHAM

©, 1921, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

A chill, misty rain had been falling all afternoon, the city streets were wet and treacherously slippery. On Tremont street business men, tired women and children jostled one another at the subway entrances, each attempting first to find shelter from the creeping chill of Boston's dampness.

All, save a young woman who, seemingly oblivious of the general purpose of the hurrying crowd, was borne along with it as driftwood is carried in an eddying brook.

Turning mechanically with the others to enter the subway, the glitter of diamonds caught her eye. Quickly she turned and stood before the jeweler's window, gazing wistfully at its dazzling array. Her eyes fell on a beautiful ring and for a moment she seemed again lost in thought.

"It was just like that—I wonder, was I foolish?" she muttered to herself, as she turned hastily away.

This time with purposeful decision in every motion, she jostled her way to a seat on her homeward bound car. She settled into it with a tired little sigh, for Doris was tired—tired of the endless monotony of the life she'd lived, and that lay before her. It always had been, always would be, save and economize, trying to make both ends meet. Last night she had promised to marry Dick.

And today of all days to be reminded by that diamond ring of the one which, three years before, she had given back to Howard Kent! How proud she was when that expensive bit of shining nothingness was first hers, and happy to realize that at last the door was open to free her from her prison of drudgery for a family of ungrateful brothers and sisters. Just that sense of freedom alone had been enough for a time—she realized now that she had been too dazzled to find that the son of rich old Kent wanted to marry her to ask herself if she really cared for him. That was until. . . . But sometimes, even yet, she asked herself if she couldn't as easily have put up with the thought of "other women," as with this monotony of shabby respectability she now endured.

And Dick—dear old Dick! Had she hurt him last night? All day the memory of what she had said and of the hurt-look in his face, had haunted her. Once more her anxious mind went over it.

"Doris," he had said, "Doris, say you will, and let me get you the ring. It won't be any 'dazzler,' dear, but it will be the best I can give you."

And her answer! How had she said it?

". . . But, Dick, please, don't get me a ring. I'd rather you'd take the money to buy things for our own home. I guess I'm a little more sensible than some girls about it. Most of them think they can't really be engaged unless they have diamond rings, but I've told you, Dick, about the beauty Howard gave me, and I don't feel that I could care for another, unless it's just as good—don't you see. . . ."

But here "Harvard, Harvard square," interrupted her reverie; so, impatiently gathering her packages together, she hastened from the car and joined the home-ebbing tide of tired humanity.

"Home"—she dreaded it, and yet that was what she had promised to make for Dick—a home. And she had done it because she loved him.

"Anyway," she thought, as she ran up the front steps, "the money Dick would have spent on an insignificant diamond will buy us some decent parlor furniture, something to be proud of, instead of feeling that I have to apologize for a cheap ring. Tonight I'll make Dick understand what I mean. Of course, he couldn't at first; he's never loved any other girl and can't realize that a poor little diamond could remind me of the luxuries I might once have had."

But that evening she didn't tell Dick. When she met him at the door and he caught her in his arms with "How is my little girl tonight?" a certain boyish happiness in the way he lingered on the "my" forbade her bringing up any unpleasant subject.

"Doris, I've thought all day of what you said last night about the ring, and I know you're right, the way you look at it. I can't get you as nice a ring as you ought to wear, and because you've had one, you feel that you do not want another. I don't blame you, dear, and I know I'm a fool for what I've done.

"But, you see, we fellows sometimes have as foolish ideas about diamond rings being part of an engagement as some girls do. Can't you understand?"

Slowly he took from its velvet box the ring which to him meant so much and to her meant—meant more than all the luxuries represented by the big, flashy stone she had refused, or the furniture she had dreamed of, for without them she could live, but without what this stood for she realized all else would be in vain.

Suddenly, the meaning of it all swept over her, the bigger meaning, and it was a shaky, sob-choked voice that said: "Oh, forgive me, Dick. Now I do understand, and I am proud to have it and wear it, always. If it isn't large and showy, it's all mine and true blue."

SOME NOVELTIES OF SOUND

Really Curious Phenomena That Have Come Under the Observation of the Physicists.

If, when the air is still, you stand near a high wall and speak a word loudly, it will come back to you as if repeated by an invisible person. It is, of course, an echo.

Parallel walls separated by a few hundred feet, as in a canyon, may so reflect a sound as to cause it to be distinctly heard again and again in a long-dying series of repetitions.

If the reflecting walls are irregular, the repetitions, instead of being distinct to the ear, will be mere jumbled and unintelligible reverberations. This is noticeable in certain caverns.

Prof. W. J. Humphreys, an eminent physicist, describes a curious phenomenon which he calls an "acoustical mirage," sounds uttered at a distance on the surface of the earth seeming to come from high in the air. Such an uplifting of sound (corresponding to the uplifting of a landscape by a visual mirage) may occur when a stratum of warm air at the surface is overlaid by cooler air. The sound travels faster at the top, and so appears to come from aloft.

A balloonist can often hear the earth-echo of his own voice when he cannot, by shouting, gain the attention of people standing on the ground below him. It is because he—at an altitude of fifteen hundred feet perhaps—is in a region of silence, whereas they are immersed in a flood of sound.

MONARCH A MEAN NEIGHBOR

Sennacherib, Ancient Ruler of Egypt, Evidently a Bully of the Highest Order.

Going about knocking down other king's cities when they failed to "kiss his feet," was one of the playful habits of Sennacherib, ruler of Egypt some two thousand years ago, according to cuneiform tablets just placed on exhibition at the University of Chicago. Sennacherib kept a "diary" of his "playful habits." The big stone slabs were brought to the United States, with other records of ancient Egypt, by Prof. James H. Breasted. "In my third campaign I marched against the land of Hatti (Palestine)," said Sennacherib in his "diary." "The kings of the west land brought rich gifts before me for the fourth time and kissed my feet." "Hezekiah, the Judean, who had not submitted to my yoke, I besieged and took 46 of his strong-walled cities, together with countless small cities, by assault of battering rams and siege engines, attack by foot soldiers and by mines and breaches. I captured some two hundred thousand people, some small and great, men and women, oxen and innumerable sheep." "Hezekiah himself I shut up in Jerusalem like a caged bird." Other tablets showed that Sennacherib had a Cheops "jazz band," a dromedary "toddle" and desert "home brew."

Note Was Misleading.

At the head of a large business concern in Muncie is a very pompous man, who not only is very careful of his dignity but inclined to irritability if things do not go exactly right with him. Wishing to attend to some correspondence and having been troubled much of the day by visitors he placed a note on the outside of his private office door the other day which read: "Mr. Blank cannot be disturbed."

A collector soon afterward appeared at the door of the private office, walked past the secretary, read the note and strode in, but soon came out the door much more rapidly than he had entered.

"Didn't you read the note?" the secretary asked of the disheveled collector.

"I read it," the latter admitted, "but I didn't believe it and went in to find out. I discovered that I was right, for he can be and was." — Indianapolis News.

Library of Congress Ranks Third.

The collection of the library of congress is the largest in the western hemisphere, and third in the world. It comprises over 2,710,500 printed books and pamphlets (including the law library, which, while a division of the library of congress, still remains at the capitol), maps and charts, pieces of music, and photographs, prints, engravings and lithographs numbering about one million. The collection is rich in history, political science, in official documents, national, state and foreign, and in Americana, including important files of American newspapers and original manuscripts (colonial, revolutionary and formative periods). Many rare books and manuscripts belonging to the library are exhibited in show cases on the second floor.

Nation Without Language.

Switzerland has no language of its own. The official languages of Switzerland are French, Italian and German, all three being recognized as the "mother tongue" of the majority of the inhabitants.

A majority of the people speak German, while the others use French and Italian, varying as a rule according to the proximity of the people to each country whose language they speak.

Public documents and notices are printed in the French and German languages. In the Swiss national parliament the members make their speeches either in French or German, the members being as familiar with one language as the other.

Statements from the president of Switzerland are furnished to the newspapers in both languages.

MISS EMILY

By BERTHA RICE.

©, 1921, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

Miss Emily Van Bustin was marking time in her beautifully furnished den. Her good looks, good taste and charming clothes successfully camouflaged her thirty-five years to an easy twenty-eight. She had good sense, too, and admitted that life was becoming increasingly stale.

It was the Father of His Country's birthday, therefore a holiday. Miss Emily hated holidays, the time for family get-togethers. Tiring of reflection, she decided to take a walk.

Katie Kommon, a rosy, freckled maid of twenty, walked listlessly down Pedigree avenue, on which was the home of Miss Van Bustin. She had no place to go and no companions. A holiday was such a useless gift.

It was a mild, sunny day, and she took a seat in the little park that terminated the avenue. Self-pity usually ends in tears. Being alone she cried unrestrainedly.

"What is the matter?"

"I'm Katie Kommon, and I'm a general in Mrs. Coates' family."

"A general?"

"Yessum. General maid."

"Oh! Haven't you any friends in the city?"

"No'm. I'm a stranger, and don't know anybody. I want a chum to go around with, like other girls."

"We're both in the same boat, Katie. I want a chum, too. Come home with me, and we'll finish this tiresome holiday together."

Katie looked at the beautifully-gowned lady beside her in astonishment as she stammered, "Why, I—I couldn't—"

"Oh, yes, you can. Come."

They soon reached the Van Bustin residence. Admitting with a latchkey, Miss Emily led the way to her den, which was arranged for tea.

"Now, Katie," she said, as she made the tea, "tell me where your home is?"

"In Maine. Father is dead, and I'm the oldest of five. I send money home to help out."

"And you've no friends here?"

"No'm. It's awful lonely. Sundays and holidays are the worst. I'd like to belong to a club, or something."

"Katie, let's start a club of two, said Emily. There's a sunny, front room on the second floor that we'll use for a clubroom. It shall be open to lonely girls, on Sundays and holidays."

"Where'll you find girls?"

"I'll find them. Will you come next Sunday? We'll have music, talks and eats, to start with."

"Oh, I'd love to."

The Sunday newspapers carried the following advertisement:

"Wanted, a dozen lonely girls, the loneller the better. Apply at 27 Pedigree avenue on Sunday."

Loneliness and curiosity, both, induced ten girls to investigate, and they found a cordial welcome. Over the tea and cakes Miss Van Bustin explained her project.

And that was the beginning of the holiday club, and—of something else.

Among those who read the advertisement was Mrs. Cornelia Drewster Van Bustin, possessor of the bluest of blue blood, society leader, and aunt to Miss Emily. She was shocked, horrified, wrathful.

She summoned a family council, and ordered that Emily be ostracized if she refused to abandon her plebeian club. Some demurred, but none dared oppose. The ultimatum was delivered by Aunt Cornelia over the telephone.

"Oh, fudge," said Miss Emily, dropping the receiver.

But she felt hurt, however, when, a fortnight later, Mrs. Van Bustin gave a brilliant social affair to which her niece was not invited.

A week later a conspicuous sign in black and white hung from the second-story window of the Van Bustin ancestral home. It announced, "A Holiday Club for Working Girls. Come In."

The sign arrested the attention of a man who was walking down Pedigree avenue. He was about forty, tall, and "fine lookin'," so Katie said. He hesitated a moment, then crossed the street and rang the bell of No. 27.

The man ascended the stairs, and entered the room without knocking. He had walked half the distance to the piano, where Miss Emily was seated, when she turned.

"Robert!" she exclaimed in confusion. Then, "Will you be seated, Mr. Sherrold?" she primly invited.

"Emily," said her caller, ignoring her invitation, "what does that sign mean?"

"Why do you ask?"

"You know why. We parted because I couldn't live your rapid, society life, and you wouldn't live the broader life with me."

With one stride he reached her and grasped her wrists.

"Look at me, Emily," he commanded, "and tell me the truth."

Unflinchingly she faced him. "It means that I am tired of stagnation, and want to live in touch with real life."

"God bless you, Emily. We'll live it together," he said, as he drew her close into his arms.

Some time later Miss Emily said, "We'll have a co-ed club. Robert, where your boys can meet my girls. I want them to have a chance to be as happy as we are."

ORIGINAL DREADNOUGHT SOLD.

(By International News Service)

LONDON, Sept. 5.—The original battleship Dreadnought, which revolutionized naval warfare, has been sold at Rosyth Dockyard to a firm of shipbrokers for $176,000.

SAW BIG PLOT IN FOOTBALL

Hard to Convince Turkish Authorities That the Game Was Not Revolutionary Camouflage.

It has always been a difficult matter to be a sportsman in Turkey. One Turk, Rechad Bey, tried it with a result weird enough to serve as a basis for a detective story.

It appears that the young Turk had organized a football team among his friends, together with some Greeks and Armenians, and began practicing. Shortly thereafter, in the middle of the night, police came to his house and carried him off to Scutari. There he was submitted to a long examination as to the club and the game of football.

The authorities were convinced that they had found a great plot, and that the club must be a secret society. A special messenger was sent for the ball, and that was duly examined and found to be an infernal machine. The rules of the game were considered to be another piece of damning evidence, and still worse were the sweaters and colors of the club.

After long deliberation the culprit was sent to the higher police authorities in Stamboul, who went through a second long examination and came to the conclusion that the empire had been saved from disintegration by the early discovery of a great plot. They dispatched the whole matter to be inquired into at the sultan's palace at Yildiz, and a special commission took the matter in hand.

After much careful thought and examination of the evidence of the crime it was decided that there might be nothing in it, but that it must not be committed again.

OUTWITTING THE BOND THIEF

Wall Street Bankers Have Devised Some Novel Methods of Camouflaging Securities.

Many runners in Wall Street are adopting novel methods of their own to safeguard the securities given in their care for delivery. In some instances firms have made suggestions and rules for "camouflaging" the handling of stocks and bonds outside of their offices. One broker's house has all securities pinned inside newspapers and one of its runners apparently walks around with a single newspaper under his arm which has attached to its pages inside valuable bonds and stocks. Yet another firm has hired former policemen to handle its deliveries of stock.

Another firm has presented its runners with suits, the vests of which have large inside pockets which are buttoned and in these the securities are carried and must be on pain of dismissal.

One wet day recently a special messenger of a large brokerage house carried two Liberty bonds of $50,000 apiece and three of $10,000 each pinned inside a closed umbrella.—Wall Street Journal.

Eastern Women Advancing.

Feet fit for feats, both as to shape and shoes, are no longer confined to men nor yet to the women of the western world, says a bulletin from the national board of the Y. W. C. A. In the recent Olympic races of the Far East, held in Shanghai, 1,200 girls and young women took part. Of these 200 were from Japan and the Philippine Islands, and the rest from China, 500 being Shanghai girls. The Shanghai delegation was selected and trained for the events by the Young Women's Christian association of Shanghai. "It is within the last six years that this activity in the land of little bound feet has developed," writes Miss Florence Brown of Rochester, N. Y., who is at present in Shanghai for the Y. W. C. A. "In 1915, when the last Olympic games were held," she says, "the only girls who took part were a few Filipino girls, who formed a baseball team."

His Desires.

The manager of the Indiana Masonic home overheard a group of small boys from the home discussing what they desired to be when they grew to be men. One insisted he would be a Mason, another a Shriner and another had ambitions to be a Noble of the Mystic Shrine, but five-year-old Jack, drum major in the home band, said:

"No, I do not want to be any of those."

"What," the others replied, "don't want to be a Shriner or Mason or Noble; why, what do you want to be?"

He drew himself up and replied proudly, "Well, I'll tell you what. I want to be a popentate."—Indianapolis News.

Small Orphan Traveled Far.

Her baggage consisting of two letters, dealing with her father's war record, three-year-old Winnifred Josephine McKinley passed through Port Arthur, Ontario, recently on the Canadian Pacific on the way to her uncle's home in Swift Current, Saskatchewan. From her faraway home in Glasgow, Scotland, to the Canadian West, more than 4,000 miles, the little orphan had only the kindly directions of train and steamship officials to guide her.

Superiority of Oil Over Coal.

The amazing increase in the use of oil for fuel is not surprising when it is considered that weight for weight and with proper burners the oil gives 50 per cent more steam than coal. It is easier than coal to handle, it obviates dust and dirt, makes little smoke and no ashes and can be lighted instantly and controlled absolutely.

TO RESTORE WORLD WONDER

Mexican Government Will Remove Debris Covering Great Pyramids of the Sun and Moon.

Not only are the two great pyramids, those of the sun and the moon, situated near San Juan de Teotihuacan, Mex., to be restored to their original lines, but the Mexican government has made an appropriation for excavating and reconstructing the ruins of the great buried city surrounding the pyramids, which flourished more than 4,000 years ago. During the last four years immediately preceding the revolutionary period, considerable work had been done in the matter of clearing away the accumulation of debris that covered the pyramid of the sun, and it stands forth today as one of the greatest wonders of the world, according to archeologists. This pyramid is three times as large as the great Cheops pyramid near Cairo, Egypt, and in its construction giant blocks of stone were used. It is 1,400 feet square at the bottom. In height it is only 200 feet, and but for this fact would be one of the most imposing structures ever made by man, it is stated. The pyramid of the sun is smaller than the one of the moon.

Paying Fines As You Go.

Some useful things have occasionally come out of the turmoil in Central Europe. One of the best plans of which we have heard is a new fining system which is used in Prague. The police carry receipts for fines for various sums in their pockets, and present them for immediate payment to hilarious citizens who break the peace by singing or playing on musical instruments on the streets at the wrong time, or where the volume of harmony is too great. This tends to allow the citizens of this old city to get some much needed rest. This system has worked so well and has become so popular that it was extended to traffic violations as well. It would certainly be a great convenience if we could adjust minor infractions such as a smoking automobile, or failure to keep automobile lamps lighted, without having recourse to the police or traffic courts.—Scientific American.

New Zealand Pageant Lesson.

The pageant has apparently taken its place in the educational methods of New Zealand, judging by the successful enactment of the battle of Orakau on the very ground where Rewi Maniapoto hurled his defiance at the Pakeha, or white men; Ka whawhai tonu matou! (We will fight on for ever and ever.)

Dressed to represent the Maori tribesmen, school children from Te Awamutu bravely defended the native Pa, until the white troops, also young New Zealanders, drove them away in rout. Before the charging troops could reach the spot where their fire had mown down the "Maoris," the latter introduced an unrehearsed effect by jumping to their feet and fleeing after their comrades.

AN OLD RECIPE TO DARKEN HAIR

Sage Tea and Sulphur Turns Gray, Faded Hair Dark and Glossy

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and luster to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients, at very little cost. Everybody uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.

C. OF C. ENROLLS NINE APPLICANTS

The drive for new members in the Glendale Chamber of Commerce continues. Nine applications were received from boosters of Glendale for membership into the chamber this week. McElman, 858 West Doran street, cement blocks; A. L. Chandler, 310 North Jackson street, carpenter; C. H.H Brainard, 120 East Laurel street, architect and work superintendent.

These applicants were elected members of the Chamber of Commerce at the regulra weekly meeting of the board of directors today.

UNAVOIDABLE ACCIDENT

An unavoidable accident that occurred at Park avenue and Brand boulevard at an early hour Sunday morning was reported to the Glendale police by Frank D. Lauterman of La Canada.

According to Mr. Lauterman's report he was driving toward Los Angeles, behind a Pacific Electric car, at about 12:40 a. m. The car stopped at Park avenue to take on passengers and Mr. Lauterman decreased the speed of his machine. Miss Irene Allen, 1221 South Boynton avenue, Los Angeles, started to board the car and when directly in front of the machine driven by Mr. Lauterman she became confused. Mr. Lauterman, in an attempt to avoid hitting the woman swerved his car to the right, the left fender striking Miss Allen. Little damage was done and according to witnesses the accident was unavoidable and Mr. Lauterman was not to blame.

LATIN-AMERICAN QUARREL

GENEVA, Sept. 6.—The territorial and treaty dispute between Bolivia and Chile, which threatened to cause another withdrawal from the league of nations, failed to come up in the league of nations assembly meeting today. The Bolivian delegates said the fight had only been postponed as they intended to press their claims against Chile. The Chileans threatened withdrawal of their country from the league if the Bolivian-Chilean treaty of 1894 was taken up for revision.

GLENDALE AVENUE COLLISION

Edward F. Ross of 81 North Allen street, Pasadena, reported to the police that while driving east on Colorado, near Glendale avenue, his machine collided with a car driven by George H. Vertefenille. According to Mr. Ross both cars were traveling 15 miles per hour. Little damage was done to either car and the drivers settled the matter.

PRESBYTERIANS ARE ASKED TO HELP IN PHOENIX WORK

The people of the Presbyterian Church listened Sunday morning to Rev. George Logie, superintendent of the Charles H. Cooke Training School at Phoenix, Arizona, an institution which trains Indians for teachers, evangelists, or for plain useful Christian living. He said:

"I speak for a people that are poor and despised. There are approximately 350,000 Indians in the country. Leaving out those in Oklahoma, which state has the most, there are more in Arizona than any other state, 40,000.

"There are also a great many Mexicans there. The responsibility of these rests on the Presbyterian Church more than any other. The brave pioneer missionary, Charles H. Cooke, came almost fifty years ago and worked his life out, forty-five years. The Indian church members by now number 2,500. Among the several different tribes the Navajos, in the northern part, are a strong people and will make themselves felt.

"Dr. Cooke did a great work among the Pimas. The problem arose of the need of native workers: for nobody can wholly understand an Indian except from the inside. When the speaker came, 23 years ago, Dr. Cooke was laboring to start for them a training school. In time the Kennedy fund made it possible to begin. Thus far there have been fifty in the school, who are now scattered through Arizona. All use English. The situation has now come to this: it has not been possible to enlarge the plant, which is out-grown. Practically all the men who come are mature married men, many with families; and room must be made somehow for them. Each year more men enter than those going out.

"It is plain, to those with vision, that this school has been placed with a special purpose of God. The mass of the Indian races extend north and south through the continents in an unbroken chain, 15,000,000 of them, practically untouched. This is a central strategic point.

"The Christian Pimas stand at the top among them; they have been called to God's kingdom for such a time as this. Mr. Logie called on the young Pimas to be ready for the call from the Yaquis and others to the south. An unbelieving young Indian made fun. But ere long he was converted—a forceful young fellow of abilities, and soon he was doing important work.

"An appeal was made for one to go on a mission to the Apaches, and this man volunteered, undertaking to carry training work and mission work both together. He left his store and his crops. An old woman said, 'Never mind, my son; go when God calls you. I'll harvest your crop.' She did, and sent him the proceeds. He went and gathered up the Indian Christians and did a deep, sound work. An so did others. Unless we train true leaders our work may gall to naught."

Mr. Logie was followed by a few words from our own Mr. Johnston, a long-experienced worker, who spoke strongly of the great work remaining yet undone among those Indians, and of the fact that the key to the total Indian situation is Arizona.

MR. MOYSE RETURNS

Principal George U. Moyse, who heads the high school faculty, and Mrs. Moyse, vice principal, returned to Glendale Saturday night.

Mr. Moyse says that the Big Basin where the greater part of their vacation was spent in an altogether delightful camp, is one of the most restful places he knows anything about. They explored the Santa Cruz grove of big trees, visited Monterey, Redwood City, San Mateo, San Jose, Salinas and several other places.

In most places schools had not begun but access could be had to the buildings and Mr. Moyse was interested to see the provisions for department work and the equipment. Not one of them did Mr. Moyse find that was in a position to do better by students than Glendale is doing barring the handicap of school congestion.

HI Y BOYS GATHER AT KAMP KOLE FOR FALL VACATION

Hi Y boys in camp from all parts of Los Angeles County are evidently having a very pleasant and profitable outing at Kamp Kole on the west fork of the San Gabriel river. The following letter gives some idea of the conference:

Kamp Kole, Calif.,
September 4, 1921.

Editor Glendale Press:

I am writing this letter from the Y. M. C. A. summer camp at Kamp Kole. There are between 50 and 60 fellows here. There are four of us from Glendale, Dale Wood, Paul Edmonds, Alton Mattice and myself, and we would appreciate it you would see fit to print this letter.

From the reports of the different Hi Y clubs, it seems that the Y. M. C. A. is accomplishing a great deal in Southern California.

This is the first camp of its kind in this part of the country and is a tremendous success. We are all having a fine time and getting a great deal of benefit from the splendid talks of the leading "Y" men who are here.

This is a fine place for a camp and we only wish more of the Glendale members could be here. Dale Wood was elected to the editorship of the evening paper, the Kamp Kole Krafter. The first copy was read at campfire last night and was voted a winner. In this and several other ways, Glendale has taken its place among the leading cities represented here.

Not wishing to take up too much space in your columns, I will close by saying that, although we are enjoying our stay here immensely, we will all be glad to see Glendale once more.

Yours truly,
GEO J. JORDAN '22.

WIVES AID HUSBANDS

DALAS, Texas, Sept. 6—With the unemployment situation in Dallas in a serious condition, request has been made to Board of Commissioners by Miss Alice Brown, Director of Public Welfare, that married men be given preference in all work done by the city until the situation has been remedied.

Wives of men who have been unable to find work call at the Municipal Employment Bureau every day seeking work for themselves or their husbands.

Exposition Ends in Glow of Friendship

Each boy came up for air with his face covered from ear to ear with prunes.

Good Will Talk

During the evening, James M. Rhoades, secretary of the local Chamber of Commerce, and his assistant, E. F. Sanders, were introduced from the runway, and delivered short addresses.

In his address, Mr. Rhoades outlined the objects striven for and attained by the exposition. He said that many of the residents of Glendale are comparatively newcomers in the city, having moved here within the past year or two, and did their trading in Los Angeles, more from habit than reason. They had been taught to believe that merchandise could be purchased there much cheaper than it could be in Glendale. The exposition, he said, has proven that the merchants of Glendale sell just as good as, if not better, merchandise than can be purchased in Los Angeles, and just as cheap.

"Remember, my friends, the dollar spent in Los Angeles never returns to Glendale, and the dollar that buys merchandise in Los Angeles will not help to build this city, neither will it provide streets, and schools for your children," he concluded.

Mr. Sanders, in his talk, described the duties of the Chamber of Commerce. In his description he likened the Chamber of Commerce to the lungs of the human body. He said that it was through such an organization that this or any other city lived and breathed. He also outlined a few of the present problems that are facing the organization and which it is striving to attain.

Record Sales

A letter from the Glendale Nash Sales was read from the platform, which stated that the exposition was directly responsible for the sale of six Nash cars and the securing of names of several prospects. The organization extended their heartfelt thanks to the merchants of this city for making such an exhibition possible.

From the runway Fred Jamison sang several ballads and popular songs and that ever-attractive Marjorie Howard put over one of her favored numbers.

Nightie Parade

Classie Marlowe and her troupe of models displayed several of the latest things in street dresses and cloaks, and then came the pajama parade. All the lights in the tent with the exception of those on the runway, were extinguished, and the girls tripped down the platform clad in the latest in "nighties." They were followed by Classie Marlowe, clad in a pink negligee with wide bands of fur around the sleeves and bottom. Miss Marlowe also displayed the latest model corset and lingerie, supplied by the Sherrod Specialty Shop.

The Art Note

Practically all of the decoration at the exposition was done by the Moore-Champlain Wall Paper Co. In addition to decorating most of the booths and papering the stage set used for the fashion display, the company had one of the most attractive booths in the tent. Alfred F. Peete, of Long Beach, Australia, and the world in general, was at the booth painting beautiful decorative wood plaques, which were on sale. These plaques were arranged in the booth as a background for the bungalow built by the Sunset Paint Co., and painted with their paints. It is estimated that about 75 of these plaques were sold.

IF KIDNEYS AND BLADDER BOTHER

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys and Neutralize Irritating Acids

Kidney and bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it often remains to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in voiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs, which then act normally again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink, which relieves bladder trouble.
